PROGRAMME GUIDE

Welcome to The Raglan Festival 2006

Now in its second year, Raglan Music Festival will deliver a feast of musical entertainment appealing to all ages and musical tastes.

Expanding on last year, the event now also includes classical and choral events, jazz, rock, blues, folk, jam sessions and workshops for adults as well as children. The range of venues has been expanded to include Raglan Parish Church and more events are planned to be staged at St Cadoc's Court.

We are delighted to welcome a number of performers of true international acclaim including John Wetton and Geoff Downes on the Saturday evening and Catherine Handley and Eluned Pierce on the Sunday afternoon.

You will notice that the vast majority of events are free of charge. This is only possible due the support of many organisations who have helped sponsor the event and a large number of individuals who have devoted considerable time and effort into making the event happen.

This is an event run by the community for the community. We hope you enjoy it and we welcome any feedback on any aspect of the event

Come and sing the Messiah

Cambrensis choir and orchestra under the inspirational direction of Kelvin Thomas will be providing the backbone for a rehearsal and performance of Handel's oratorio. The event is open to all who would like to sing Messiah from Scratch. There is no charge to perform but it would be helpful if participants came to St Cadoc's Church, Raglan with their own copy of the vocal score. The rehearsals take place from 2.30pm on Saturday and the performance will be at 7.30. Entry to the evening performance will be charged at £5.

St Cadoc's Church will also host the superb flute and harp duo Catherine Handley and Eluned Pierce. Taking place at 3pm on Sunday 11th their programme includes well-known works by Mozart, Debussy and Ravel as well as lesser-known works from Lauber, Mouquet and Blake. Both Catherine and Eluned regularly perform with many of the world's top orchestras.
